

My name is Alexandher Peterson, and Aexion is the name of my creative agency. I grew up in a small town just outside Des Moines, Iowa. At school, I was the kid that was always drawing. It didn't matter what materials you gave me, I could find a way to turn them into a tool that would unleash my creativity.

I've been in the design industry for the last six years, and currently taking specialized creative courses at the University of South Dakota. Aexion was founded in 2014, when I took a risk by starting to freelance my design skills.

I'm also an experienced coder, and can easily bring my designs to life. The languages I know fluently include: HTML/CSS, Javascript, C#, and PHP.